

Guest Blogging Guidelines

Thank you for your interest in writing a guest blog on AI Agents Live. We're excited to have you share your expertise on innovative AI technology and AI agents with our community. To maintain consistency with our website, please follow these guidelines:

Content Guidelines

- Originality: All submissions must be original and not published elsewhere. Plagiarism is strictly prohibited. While content generated by AI tools like ChatGPT is acceptable, its usage should be limited.
- Quality: Aim for well-researched, informative, and engaging content. Ensure your writing is clear and free of grammatical errors.
- Relevance: Posts should focus on the latest advancements in AI technology and topics related to AI agents, including but not limited to AI builders, agentic workflows, AI automation, and more.
- Length: Articles should be at least 800 words.
- Citations: Properly cite any external sources or references used in your post.

Submission Process

- Contact: You can contact us here with your blog title and we will get back to you. Alternatively, send us an email at hello@aiagentslive.com
- Format: Submit your article in a Word document or Google Doc
- Bio: Include a short author bio (50-100 words) with your submission, along with an optional headshot
- Links: You may include up to 2 links to your personal or professional website, blog, or social media profiles.

Review and Editing

- Review: All submissions will be reviewed by our editorial team. We may suggest edits or request additional information.
- Editing: We reserve the right to make minor edits for clarity, grammar, and style. Major changes will be discussed with you.

Publication

- Schedule: Accepted posts will be scheduled for publication based on our content calendar.
- Promotion: We will promote your post across our social media channels and newsletters. Feel free to share it within your own networks as well.
- Exclusivity: While we encourage cross-promotion, please do not republish the exact same content on other platforms.
